

Bahama Woodstar

This is our special hummingbird because it is only found in The Bahamas, which means it is one of our three endemic species. They are small (less than 4 inches in length) and feed on nectar from flowers. Their backs are green, the male has a violet throat and deeply forked tail. The female has a white throat and belly and a rounded tail. One can find these birds in gardens, woodlands, forest edges and mixed pine forest.
